Prayer

Be praised my lord with all your creatures
But especially with Brother Sun
Because he shows us light and day through him
And he is lovely glowing with great shine
And from you my lord: his definition.

Be praised my lord for Brother Wind
And for the air and cloudy days
And bright and all days else because
Through these you give your creatures
Sustenance.

Be praised my lord for Sister Water
Because she shows great use and humbleness in
Her preciousness
And depth.

Be praised my lord for Brother Fire
Through whom you light all nights upon the earth
Because he too is lovely
Full of joy and manly strength.

Be praised my lord because our sister
Mother Earth sustains and rules
Us and because she raises
Food to feed us: colored flowers, grass

Be praised my lord for those who pardon by your love
And suffer illness and grief
And bless those who undergo in silence
The poor for whom you hold a crown

Be praised my lord for Sister Death-of-body
Whom no man living can escape
And pity those who die in mortal sin
Any everyone she finds who minds you
Bless: no second death to bring them hurt.

Oh praise my lord and bless my lord and thank
And serve my lord with humbleness Triumphant.

“Let us never be a closed corporation; let us never deny our experience, for whatever it may be worth, to the world around us. Let our individual members heed the call to every field of human endeavor. Let them carry the experience and spirit of A.A. into all these affairs, for whatever good they may accomplish. For not only has God saved us from alcoholism; the world has received us back into its citizenship.”

The Twenty-Third Ps A.A.Im

The Lord is my sponsor. I shall not want. He maketh me to go to many meetings. He leadeth me to sit back, relax, and listen with an open mind. He restoreth my soul, my sanity, and my health. He leadeth me in the paths of sobriety, serenity, and fellowship for mine own sake. He teacheth me to think, to take it easy, to love and let live, and to do first things first. He maketh me honest, humble, and grateful; He teacheth me to accept the things I cannot change, to change the things I can, and giveth me the wisdom to know the difference. Yea though I walk through the valley of despair, frustration, guilt and remorse I will fear no evil: For thou art with me: Thy program, thy way of life, thy twelve steps... They comfort me. Thou prepared a table before me in the presence of mine enemies - rationalization, fear, anxiety, self pity, and resentment. Thou anointed my confused mind and jangled nerves with knowledge, understanding, and hope. No longer am I alone, neither am I afraid, nor sick, nor helpless, nor hopeless. My cup runneth over. Surely Sobriety and Serenity shall follow my every day of my life, twenty-four hours at a time. As I surrender my will to Thine and carry thy message to others: and I will dwell in the house of my Higher Power, as I understand him, daily, for ever and ever. Amen.

Open and Closed Meetings

Early mentions of A.A. meetings carried an almost idyllic tone, one that reflects the good feelings A.A.'s everywhere still get when walking into a meeting, whether it's a home group or a new meeting in a strange city. The Big Book (page 159) discusses a time when there were but 10 members in Akron: "Scarcely an evening passed that someone's house did not shelter a little gathering of men and women, happy in their release, and consistently thinking how they might present their discovery to some newcomer.

Others, those without alcohol problems, became interested in this little gathering of recovering alcoholics and their message. "In addition to these get-togethers," the book says of early meetings, "it became customary to set apart one night a week for a meeting to be attended by anyone or everyone interested in a spiritual way of life." Even then, it was known that alcoholics share a special bond, and that a meeting of alcoholics was something different than a meeting that could be attended by anyone.

The topic of all meetings, though, should relate to alcoholism. That is where the singleness of purpose and it's message by trying to be all things to all people, it can lose it's effectiveness with the alcoholic. That is why many groups read a singleness of purpose statement before meetings asking that discussion be confined to problems with alcohol. A.A. literature is also very specific about sharing by non-A.A. members, whether by nursing or medical students, professionals, friend or loved ones of alcoholics, even members of other twelve step groups.

"At open meetings" says The A.A. Group pamphlet, "non-A.A.'s may be invited to share, depending on the conscience of the group.' Non-A.A.'s are, of course, invited to attend Open meetings to observe and learn about the fellowship. The tradition that they do not speak at meetings relates to our preamble, which states in part, "A.A. is a fellowship of men and women who share their experience.." Since the experience we share is that of alcoholism, non-alcoholics are not usually in a position to share, since they don't have that experience.

At informational meetings, of course, set up for the purpose of shedding light on the A.A. program, there are often question-and-answer sessions at which non-alcoholics participate to learn more.

Reprinted from the Grapevine.

A newcomer was sitting in the back of the room before the meeting began, leafing frantically through the pages of the Big Book.

An old-timer came up to her and said, "What are you looking for?"

"Loopholes," the newcomer replied.
