I am responsible, when anyone, anywhere reaches out for help, I want the hand of AA always to be there... And for that, I am responsible.

An Intimate Reflection

She is done with me, the man driven to prison. She's probably sitting around in bewilderment. Befuddled at how our beautiful relationship became so ugly & vulgar. Well, she doesn't have to look far. I became a monster! A manifestation of erratic addiction. It enveloped my entity, as I invested so much time with it's influences. Motivated by its crippling grip on the psyche. It consumed me! Incapable of forming anything like "normal relationships," "being responsible" or "societal progression." Only anger, fear & resentment controlled me. It's a deadly combination, believe me!

She gave many moments of undeserved love & forgiveness though. Tried to get through to me on multiple occasions with her unwavering devotion & understanding. Not to mention, two beautiful boys. But it's all dust & debris now. Like remnants of a cremated being. Me, stoking the fire to burn a celestial body that once represented our ideal union.

I left her desolate & naked. Having to fear for herself while also having to clean up a mess I created. It probably feels like trying to sweep up a million little pieces with the absence of a broom. ...A slow & painful process, with her knowing I'll never be able to relieve her endeavors. I'm filled with suicidal thoughts, but not the ones that would end my existence. It's the one's that want to...

90 & 90

As I write this I'm 41. Yes, I'm still in prison but that does not matter. My friend is on the 90 & 90 kick and that's good for him. I'm on the meetings every day and sometimes 2. That way when I get released, it will be a part of my thinking. People say that in prison it's easy to go to meetings 'cause there is nothing else to do! Well, that's true except I'm in a program and also high school, and also other programs so I'm pretty busy. So I go 'cause I need to. I first came into A.A. 30 years ago, so by the time I was 11 I was already an alcoholic and on my way to being a drug addict. I see the board soon and want to make sure that A.A. is a major part of my life upon release. Let me explain my reasoning. I can go to a meeting a day or whatever I need to remain sober, which amounts to 7hrs a week, or I can sit in prison.

Miscellaneous Contributions

To whom may find this...

I am not an outward-going person, nor do I tend to write letters. But on this particular day, I feel that I must. I came to UNI to find the peace that I was missing, the peace that I had, before it was lost forever. UNI is a wonderful opportunity to get support, love, and non-judgemental thoughts. No one is perfect and I would be the last to cast a stone at someone that is struggling in any way. A phrase that I have learned to appreciate is:

'I didn't come here for self improvement, I came here for self acceptance.'

-Mark A.

Editors note: I found this well-hidden note while looking for a Big Book up at UNI.

Hello! My name is Riley and I'm an Addict. I've said this countless times in my life. I have attended more meetings than I will ever know. I've been a meeting secretary with my treasurer girlfriend, had a dozen sponsors and I've been on a service committee.

Relapse after relapse after relapse as I tried still to find an "easier, softer way." I must have tried to figure my way around doing the steps a million ways at least! The only direction this led me to was prison, where I've lived for a third of my life.

An old celly once told me "The lazy man always works twice." This has been my experience. I have been humbled (thank God), taken the steps and I have been sober ever since.

I smile now, thinking of words that still ring over and over in my head...

"Rarely have we seen a person fail who has thoroughly followed our path."

"There is a principle which is a bar against all information, which is proof against all arguments and which cannot fail to keep a man in everlasting ignorance-- that principle is contempt prior to investigation."

The Lifeline is always looking for content. Please share your stories, poetry, art and announcements! Send submissions to: lifeline@saltlakeaa.org

Part of Bridging the Gap between a treatment program and A.A. is the Temporary Contact Program, which is designed to help the alcoholic in an alcoholism treatment program make that transition.

As you know, one of the "slippery" places in the journey of sobriety is between the door of the facility and the nearest A.A. group or meeting. Some of us can tell you that, even though we heard of A.A. in treatment, we were too fearful to go.

A.A. experience suggests attending meetings regularly is critical. In order to bridge the gap, A.A. members have volunteered to be temporary contacts and introduce newcomers to Alcoholics Anonymous.

The video "Hope: Alcoholics Anonymous," shown to the patients in treatment, emphasizes the importance of having a temporary contact as the essential link between treatment and recovery.

It is suggested that the temporary contact take the newcomer to a variety of A.A. meetings; introduce him or her to other A.A.s; insure that he or she has the phone numbers of several A.A. members and share the experience of a sponsorship and a home group.

Corrections needs your help!

We are looking for AA members that speak Spanish to take meetings into the prisons and jails.

To take the message into the prison, you must be a legal resident of the United States, have 1 year of sobriety, be off felony charges for over 10 years and be off misdemeanor charges for over 5 years. Please contact Jana with any questions at district10corrections@gmail.com

To take the message into the jails, you must be a legal resident of the United States, have one year of sobriety, be off felony charges for over 5 years, be off misdemeanor charges for over 3 years, and have not been in jail for over 3 years. Please contact Doodan666@yahoo.com

Por favor, póngase en contacto con Dan B en Doodan666@yahoo.com

In addition to Bridging the Gap, there is a similar program on prison release day. Volunteers are needed every Tuesday 9:15 am to noon at the Fred House Training Academy in Draper. We greet them, invite them to a meeting and give them a meeting schedule. There are NO requirements, just show up. Questions? Contact Jana at district10corrections@gmail.com.

This is an excellent way to be of service if you are looking for a commitment.

...kill the addict who created all this. The addict who came to life, like Frankenstein, through drugs. The addict that roamed with his hideous disposition towards life. That's what I seek to eradicate. What I know needs to die, so the man she fell in love with can be resurrected from the grave. That's the man she deserves. The man I wan to be, so I'm once again enrap-tured in her heavenly aura. Because she's my Guardian Angel. My North Star. The green light in the misty fog Mr. Gatsby found irrevocable hope in. My dream lover. My soulmate.

Demon Inside

There's a Demon inside of me trying to take my soul

A Demon so strong he's starting to take control

There's a Demon inside of me born of my pain

I feel this Demon course through my vein

There's a Demon inside of me slowly taking me to hell

This Demon is turning me into an empty shell

There's a Demon inside of me powerful and dark

Joke of the Month

An Irish priest and a Rabbi get into a car accident. They both get out of their cars and stumble over to the side of the road. The Rabbi says, "Oy vey! What a wreck!"

The priest asks him, "Are you all right, Rabbi?"

The Rabbi responds, "Just a little shaken."

The priest pulls a flask of whiskey from his coat and says, "Here, drink some of this it will calm your nerves."

The Rabbi takes the flask and drinks it down and says, "Well, what are we going to tell the police?"

Well," the priest says, "I don't know what your aft' to be tellin' them. But I'll be tellin' them I wasn't the one drinkin'."

...so by the time I was 11 I was already an alcoholic and on my way to being a drug addict. I see the board soon and want to make sure that A.A. is a major part of my life upon release. Let me explain my reasoning. I can go to a meeting a day or whatever I need to remain sober, which amounts to 7 hrs a week, or I can sit in prison for 24 hrs a day for however long until my release, and I do know that the stays usually get longer and longer. And I am sick and tired of holidays and birthdays locked up. I am sick and tired of expensive phone calls. But mostly, I am sick and tired of being controlled by chemicals. Thank you God for keeping me sober today. I have been stuck on Step 4 for, oh, 30 years and I am happy to finally say that I have completed it as of today. And it was by me letting God guide me instead of the other way around that this was possible. And as a result have forgiven myself! Now I can truly love everyone else in my life and society.

The Line

At some point a person makes a conscious choice to cross the line. This line can represent different things to different people but a major shift occurs once it happens. Events are set in motion, momentum takes on a life of its own. Ripples transform into tidal waves. Things change.

People have always reminded me ex-actly where the line is. Everyone everywhere things its somewhere. And it is, too. I've seen it. But usually, just to make sure, I like to walk up and touch it. Feel the texture. Examples: violence is wet, betrayal is sharp.

Overtime, perhaps as a coping mechanism, attempting to make sense of the confusion, I find myself redefining the proverbial lines that make up my life:

Boundaries, maybe once healthy and necessary, are no fiercely guarded borders I defend against perceived trespasses at all costs--anyone who dare cross my train of thought! Fault lines, disguised as guidelines, where earthquakes patiently wait to be tickled and stirred.

Crude lines sketched with jagged sticks. A line here! A line there! Lifes geometry. Trying to figure out the shape of things and where I fit until my self portrait, my self image become boxed in by my own belief system. Like a picture frame slashed in concrete. Limitations of my own creation. Desperate to make something, some me that would somehow last. Hurt and confused when things eventually fall apart; fingers dripping concrete, knuckles powdered with granite dust as I tried to set something in stone... stone which eventually transformed to sand. The Sands of Time. All lines suddenly blurring before disappearing as the Tides of Change wash over then gently retreat as if nothing had happened at all.

Present moment. Clean slate. Deep breath.

AA Love

This love of which I speak is slow to lose patience... it looks for a way of being constructive. It is not possessive; it is neither anxious to impress nor does it cherish inflated ideas of its own importance. Love has good manners and does not pursue selfish advantage. It is not touchy; it does not compile statistics o defects or gloat over the mistakes of other people. On the contrary, it is glad with all the good men when truth prevails. Love knows no limit to its endurance, no end to its trust, no fading of its love, it can outlast anything. It is, in fact, the one thing that still stands when all else has fallen. This is my love for you--the love that all AAs have for each other.

Big Book Corner

The fact is that most alcoholics, for reasons yet obscure, have lost the power of choice in drink. Our so-called will power becomes practically nonexistent. We are unable, at certain times, to bring into our consciousness with sufficient force the memory of the suffering and humiliation of even a week or a month ago. We are without defense against the first drink.
